Sag Harbor for Kids

Places to go, things to do for kids in the Sag Harbor area

Sag Harbor Youth Committee

Introduction

Sag Harbor is a little off the beaten path of the villages of the East End some know as The Hamptons. Signs and logos* of whales around town identify its rich nineteenth century heritage as the third largest whaling port in New England. Galleries lining its winding main street signify its current attraction to artists. In summer its population, including day trippers, swells from a village of something over two thousand to well over eight and, for its loyal residents, it is a year-round thriving community with lots to do for kids. Our brochure includes annual events, seasonal activities, recreation, education, amusement and adventure.

 A treasure hunt will turn up at least 12 reminders of Sag Harbor's whaling past. Hint, start at the Wharf Shop.*

Places to Go, Things to Do

Proximity to New York City adds to the attraction of the East End. That hasn't prevented communities from developing their own show stoppers. In Sag Harbor alone these include a nationally renown repertory theater, a major whaling museum, a fusty, musty art movie house with requisite popcorn and festival films.

Outdoors

The outdoors is the East End's greatest draw: ocean beaches, Montauk's famous lighthouse, a sports and commercial fishing fleet with centuries of traditions. Camping facilities, parks and playing fields allow families to enjoy the scene without the high costs. Calm ponds and bays, a turbulent surf, invite canoes and kayaks as well as boogie boards.

Beaches (see map)

Sag Harbor is near bay and ocean beaches. Besides surfing, sunning and swimming you can plant eel grass in the estuaries, crab in the ponds.

Stickers are required for residents and visitors. Stickers for Havens Beach are available at the Sag Harbor Village Office in the Municipal Building on Main Street.

Stickers for all East Hampton and Southampton Town beaches are available through the Town Office in which the beach is located, or at the attendants' booths in the beach parking lots.

Hiking

Flying in the face of endless forces for development, East End communities continue to set aside land for everyone to enjoy. Every weekend there are walks or hikes listed weekly in local papers. Sturdy shoes, a bottle of water, a snack and maybe a pair of binoculars are all you need to enjoy ocean cliffs, a desert of dunes, glacial kettle ponds, woods of laurel and vistas of salt marshes, pine barrens, and the famed potato fields.

The Arts

Is it the fabled light or the fellow company of other artists that draws artists of all schools and every media to Sag Harbor and environs? While scores of world famous artists work in studios hidden in the hills of Montauk or the woods of the Springs, visitors are invited to find their own inspiration and try their own hand. Workshops in theater, art, photography, dance, martial arts and yoga are offered through-out the year sponsored by libraries, churches and long established institutions like The Bay Street Theater in Sag Harbor, Guild Hall in East Hampton, and the Parrish Art Museum in Southampton.

Art

Puppetry, portraiture, pottery, painting, printmaking and paper-mache will get you started.

When Help is Needed

Sometimes we need help whether it is a program for young people with a drinking problem or options for parents looking for day care coverage. Many teens need jobs or want an opportunity to volunteer their help to others.

Transportation

Car traffic is an increasing frustration for everyone working or playing on the East End. There are alternatives.

BIKING

Maps to bike paths and trails are available at all the bike shops. (See SPORTS). If you arrive at the beach by bike there are plenty of bike stands and no beach fees or permits required.

TRAINS

LIRR (Long Island Railroad) is the one and only train. Schedules are posted at each railroad station. Copies are distributed on the trains, at the Municipal building in Sag Harbor. The number of trains traveling "up Island" and to NYC increases in summer.
